Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Why Not a Real Revival of the Chamber of Commerce?

IN our editorial, "Is Glendale Over Organized as Far as Clubs Are Concerned?" which appeared in our edition of February 14, we suggested that we thought Glendale could be better served if matters of a civic nature were handled by one organization.

We still hold to this opinion—in fact, later developments have convinced us of the advisability of doing this.

Too much haste, which leaves much time for regrets, is used in presenting and passing important problems in our business and social clubs.

A member presents a proposition—another seconds the motion and a majority passes it. It makes no difference as to the importance of the matter, nor how much study has been given it.

After the club has gone on record, the matter thought comes into play, but too late to undue the harm done.

IF the different organizations of Glendale are going to pass judgment on important matters, they owe it to their members as a whole, as well as the citizens at large, to give all matters the consideration due them, in accordance to their importance.

In our editorial, we suggested that it was our opinion that the Chamber of Commerce would be the best agency to handle all civic matters, providing some change in policy was made by them.

Since the writing of this article there has been some changes in the Chamber of Commerce in fact, we would consider enough changes had been made to justify the turning over of all matters of a civic nature to them. We recommended that the Improvement Associations merge with the Chamber of Commerce and this can and should be done—not in the future but now.

WE ARE quite sure the Chamber of Commerce would welcome these organizations and would be willing to accept their suggestions. Why not join together and make the Glendale Chamber of Commerce the largest from point of size of city, in the country?

A city without a Chamber of Commerce will never progress far in efficiency and there is no agency that has the power of benefit to a community like a Chamber of Commerce.

Lets have a revival, and all get together and help our Chamber of Commerce to function as it ought to.

This cannot be done without the assistance of all citizens.

TWENTY-SEVEN KILLED BY COOK

[By Associated Press]
SHANGHAI, Mar. 15.—Twenty-seven students and teachers at the normal school at Hang Chow are dead and ten more are in a precarious condition as the result of eating rice saturated with poison by two disgruntled cooks who recently had been discharged, according to evidence at the official investigation into the deaths today.

Chemists who examined the rice that was left in the death dealing pot, said enough poison had been placed there to wipe out the entire community.

Chien Ah-Li, one of the discharged cooks, testified that his fellow conspirator, Pi Ho-Song, stole a bottle containing a white powder from the chemical laboratory of the school last Saturday and dumped the entire contents into the rice pot. He said both of them had been discharged recently.

Following the serving of the rice at Saturday night's supper, 200 students and 50 teachers became violently ill.

DOLLAR DAY CLEARS ALL STORES OF FIRST STOCK OF BARGAINS IN RECORD

Unprecedented Sales Reported by Pleased Merchants Who Joined in Staging the Second Event of the Kind in Glendale

MANY EXTRA CLERKS ON HAND AT STORES

Glendale Women Do Not Wait for the Usual Careful Morning Toilet, But Seek the Stocks That Are Advertised in the Glendale Daily Press

All the store proprietors who joined with the Glendale Daily Press in making a success of the second Dollar Day, rejoiced today when they viewed the thrifty Glendale housekeepers before their stores this morning, coming for first choice of the bargains offered and ready to buy other things as well.

By 10 o'clock this morning steady trading by critical shoppers was in full swing, with all the stores considerably crowded. It was a revelation which brought smiles to the faces of proprietors and worried expressions to the faces of conscientious clerks trying to serve many at the same time and place all.

At Pendroy's on the main floor, yardage held the stage on huge tables which centered the aisles piled high with attractive merchandise ranging from woools and silks to beautiful organdies, and humble cottons intended for "nighties" and other useful purposes. There was variety enough to interest a big throng which was not easy to penetrate. On the second floor were just as alluring offerings in ready to wear, particularly "undies," apron dresses which women have learned to look for, baby things, reductions in millinery, etc.

House furnishings were also in on the game and the opportunities to get more than usual for the round silver dollar appeared to be appreciated by a discriminating public. At Webb's the dollar novelties were distributed through the house dress, neckwear, handkerchief, glove and hosiery departments, with specials in stationery, darling garters, and some yardage.

Gordon's was celebrating its third anniversary and was having 20 per cent reduction offerings which were most alluring in silk underwear and sweaters. Silk and hosiery at $1 was finding plenty of buyers, and fine qualities of men's socks at 3 for $1.

At the Glendale Dry Goods store on East Broadway, it appeared to have been only necessary to advertise a 1¢ reduction on the fetching gowns which had been heretofore marked at $16, to win plenty of buyers. Stamped muslins for embroidery, underwear, hosiery, pretty aprons and neckwear rewarded others who came to see what could be found at this reliable emporium.

The Kafeteria Shoe store at 126 North Brand had realized that spring is here and had stacked tables high with white shoes of comfortable styles for only $1 a pair. Most of them had the low heels which athletes desire, but there were some French ones in the lot. On another table were slippers, just what housewives are always looking for to wear at home and these were going fast while at the same time sales were being made in the regular stock which is always offered at reasonable figures.

The Fashion Center on South Brand, by 8 o'clock this morning, showed that Glendale women read the Glendale Press. Patiently the feminine representatives of citizenship were waiting there—blondes who had not wasted time in shifting from morning gowns to street costumes and who covered up curl papers with sport hats, that they might be in time for the first rush; brunettes, who had not lost precious moments in making themselves fair to look upon; the youthful and the gray-haired of all walks of life.

When the door opened at 8:30, they fell in, but quickly recovered perpendicular and made a rush for the counters. Not waiting to ascertain sizes the dresses and aprons were chosen according to their appeal to the eye. Dollar sweaters melted away like hoar frost before a hot sun; hats disappeared, fancy belts diminished rapidly in numbers, and every counter welcomed the conquering host, for all had bargains.

By 9 o'clock the store was still full of shoppers but the counters and tables which had been piled high, looked as though the wind which swept the valley yesterday had carried away the mounds. Those who remained were still buying for there were plenty of worthwhile bargains to be had though they cost more than $1, and the proprietors were smiling over the success of their sale.

With the opening of their doors this morning, the Specialty Boot Shop, 126 South Brand, experienced an unprecedented rush. The management had thoughtfully arranged for extra clerks for today and thus avoided keeping buyers waiting.

Every counter in Fisher's Variety store, 212 East Broadway, was lined with eager, expectant buyers. Values that are hard to beat were offered by the Brand Department store, 233 North Brand, for Dollar Day.

Another firm that enjoyed a busy morning was the Stop and Shop, 226 North Brand. Their "Dollar Day" surprises brought hundreds of women.

Several extra clerks were required to take care of the many people who bought from the Lewis Jewelry company, 133 North Brand. Exceptional were their bargains for this eventful day.

Zito-Leen's, "the store that sells for less," resembled an auction sale, so large was the crowd in the store at 140 North Brand boulevard.

WOMAN ESCAPES DEATH BY INCHES

LONG BEACH, March 15.—Mrs. Ruth Sedwick of Long Beach, narrowly escaped death Wednesday night when a bullet fired by a party unknown crashed through the window of her coupe and fell to the floor at her feet.

A few inches to the right and the life of the young woman would have been taken. The report was made to the police late last night by Mrs. Sedwick that as she was driving down Anaheim near Elm street the shot was fired, apparently at close range.

Mrs. Sedwick is a woman realtor and a member of a prominent family in Long Beach.

LEGISLATURE GETS DOWN TO ITS WORK

Joint Committee Recommends Oil Prospecting at Norwalk

AMENDMENT CALLED

Would Authorize Continuous Session by Constitutional Change

[By Associated Press]
SACRAMENTO, Mar. 15.—The California legislature went to work early today, each house beginning to dispose of an extended calendar of bills ready for final passage.

Each house also received a report from a joint committee appointed to investigate the possibilities for production at the Norwalk state hospital near Los Angeles, and ordered the report printed and referred to suitable committee.

The joint committee recommended that oil development be authorized, any needed laws adopted, and the work done, if possible, in such a way that the hospital could continue to function.

Each house adopted a resolution granting the other authority to adjourn today until Monday, at 11 o'clock.

The assembly went into debate over an amendment by Edwin Baker of Los Angeles that would, if written into the state constitution, put legislative sessions back on the plan that existed up to 1913 when the bifurcated sessions began; that is, it would eliminate the constitutional recesses and make the sessions continuous. The legislators favored the plan in debate, but several of them urged that the constitution be not tinkered with until each proposed amendment had been given full consideration.

They expressed the view that a continuance of the recent growth of the number of amendments offered at general elections would result in contempt of the basic law of the state, as being too easily modified or reversed.

The debate occupied an hour or more.

VETERANS' CIVIL SERVICE RULING IS APPROVED

President's Executive Order Indorsed by Civil Service Reform League

WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Harding's executive order defining the preference to be given to veterans in appointment to positions under the federal government, which becomes effective today, is commended in a statement from the National Civil Service Reform League.

"The former construction of the veteran preference act," the statement said, "resulted in preferring for appointment the veteran who was barely qualified for a place on the eligible list ahead of the most competent civilian."

By this new ruling a credit of five points for veterans generally and of ten points for wounded veterans is substituted for the 35 points, possible under the former construction of the act.

FIVE INJURED IN MOVIE EXTRAS RIOT

Mob Watchman of Agency When Pay Is Cut

POLICE ARE CALLED

Five Wounded Sent to the Receiving Hospital for Treatment

LOS ANGELES, March 15.—A riot of movie men that was not filmed and sent five of the extras into the receiving hospital here with real, not reel, wounds, occurred today at the service bureau for motion picture employees. It was an outgrowth of reduction in pay from $5 to $3 for motion picture extras.

There were 300 men in the scene. They were waiting for work in the yard of the bureau. A bureau man issued a call, declaring that the wages would be $3 instead of the customary $5. A howl went up and the 300 men threatened to storm the bureau, which is located in an old residence on Hill street near Tenth, just outside the retail business section of the city.

Andrew B. Lane, a watchman for the bureau, stepped out among the yelling extras to quiet them. They mobbed him when he drew his gun, but he cried enough, and when they released him on promise not to shoot, he started back to the office. Suddenly he turned, witnesses said, and fired six shots into the crowd.

A riot call was sent in and policemen found the crowd quieted and caring for the five wounded men which Lane had scattered himself in a room of the bureau.

HIGH WINDS DO DAMAGE TO THE PHONE WIRES

Freaks of the Storm in Various Parts of Town

High wind, said to be the worst of the season, kept telephone repair men very busy yesterday restoring the lines put out of commission. Not so many complaints were received from the business district, where the lines are cabled as from the outlying sections in what are known as open wire leads. Up to the middle of the afternoon no poles had been blown over. Reports received by Wire Chief Nicolas from Palmdale indicated that district was suffering from the worst wind storm in its history.

The street department of the city had also been appealed to concerning fallen trees on North Orange, Stocker and East Elk, all trees in parkways of which were shallow-rooted. Fortunately, no one was passing when they fell.

Mrs. Jack Frier of Western ave., in the Grand View district, reported a terrific wind, but no serious damage within her view up to the middle of the afternoon. While severe, it was not as heavy as the big blow last year, she said. She was lamenting the fact that she had just expended about $50 to have her place irrigated and cleaned up and that it would now have to be done all over again.

FIREMEN ON THE JOB

Family, Awakened by the Sound of Fire, Send in Alarm

The garage and the upper floor of the H. A. Page, Jr., home at 408 East Acacia street were destroyed by fire shortly after midnight this morning. The timely arrival of the Glendale fire department saved the entire home from being destroyed. One automobile and two motorcycles, which were in the garage, were also destroyed.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It is known, however, that it started in the garage. Mr. Page and family, who were sleeping in the home, were awakened by the cracking of the flames and the smoke. Immediately Mr. Page turned in the alarm and in remarkably short time the fire ladders were on the job and had four streams playing on the flames.

The extent of the damage has not been ascertained.

425 VOTES CAST IN BIG BOND ELECTION UP TO NOON TODAY

Believed to Be Cast in Favor of the $500,000 Issue for the Relief of the Schools, But Total Is Light Considering Importance of Question

OUTLOOK OF VOTE CONSIDERED FAVORABLE

Afternoon Expected to Bring Light Returns; Where to Cast Your Vote This Afternoon Before Closing Time

A total of 425 votes were cast up to noon today in the election for $500,000 bonds for additional grammar school facilities in this city. Those cast at the various polling places were as follows: Wilson avenue intermediate, 225; Glendale avenue intermediate, 125; Central avenue school, 75.

The vote polled this morning was one of the lightest on record and evidences the fact that although a vast amount of money is involved, interest in the issue is lacking.

So far as can be learned the vote as cast this morning is favorable to the bonds. There were a few negative ballots cast, but it is estimated that 90% of the votes were in favor of the bonds.

"The outlook is very favorable for the bonds," was the report that came from those in charge of the balloting at the Wilson avenue intermediate school. "While the voting has been light those favoring the bonds have every reason to feel that the bonds will carry."

The officers at this polling place are T. A. Wright, inspector; Mabel A. Horner and Edna Magd Brown, judges.

The voting at the Glendale avenue intermediate was done in one of the separate bungalows. From this polling place comes the following statement:

"A very light vote is being polled, but of those registered it is believed that 90% are for the bonds. We are expecting a big rush of voters during the noon hour and are making preparations to accommodate all who come. We expect the voting this afternoon will be heavier than during the morning hours."

The officers at this polling place are as follows: Stillman Brown, inspector; Mrs. Laura Hibben and Mrs. Pearl L. Moore.

A very light vote was also experienced at the Central avenue school, which takes care of the north and west parts of the city. Up to noon at this precinct 75 votes were cast, and it is believed that practically all of these are favorable to the voting of the bonds.

"Those favorable to the bonds have every reason to feel that they will carry in this precinct. Although the vote this morning was light the result, we believe, has been favorable. The big vote at this precinct, we believe, will be cast this afternoon when machines will be sent up into the northwest district to bring down the folks of that section who want to vote. We believe the bonds are going 'over the top' today."

The officials at this precinct are: L. H. Thompson, inspector; judges, Mrs. Carrie E. Taylor and Mrs. Myrtle D. Buckman.

For the last minute voters who will want to cast their ballots on this extremely important question, the following "voting place" instructions are given:

For those living south of the center line of Colorado street the polling place is at the Glendale Avenue Intermediate school.

For those living north of the center line of Doran street and west of the center line of Jackson street the polling place is at the Central Avenue school.

For those living between these two districts or in Sycamore Canyon or Verdugo Canyon, the polling place is at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school.

FIRE FIGHTERS WIN FIGHT IN SIERRA MADRES

Blaze on Echo Mountain Is Officially Declared Extinguished

[By Associated Press]

PASADENA, March 15.—Brought under control after an all-night battle waged by more than 200 men, the forest fire which raged yesterday on Echo Mountain, in Los Flores, Millard and Rubio canyons and at Inspiration Point, near Alpine Tavern, on Mt. Lowe, was early this morning declared by Pacific Electric railway officials to be virtually out.

A fresh crew of fifty men was sent up Echo Mountain early this morning to take the places of men worn out with the night's fight against the blaze.

Small fires scattered over a large area both east and west of Echo Mountain still smoldering, are being extinguished by the fresh crews.

No service to Mt. Lowe will be given by the Pacific Electric company today, it was announced at the office here today. It is probable that the clearing of right-of-way and repairing the power lines will be completed today and service is expected to be resumed tomorrow.

Mrs. Emery, her daughter, her mother and her granddaughter were all married at sixteen.

Piqued by the fact that the Los Angeles grandmother was not only younger than Mrs. Emery, but had been a mother at 14 with a daughter who was a parent at 16, the Post-Intelligencer appealed to the Seattle public to come forward with data that would enable it to publish a more remarkable story than the one emanating from California.

SNOW BLANKET ON NEBRASKA

[By Associated Press]
OMAHA, Neb., March 15.—The heaviest general snow of the winter blanketed Nebraska and Iowa yesterday and last night, and is continuing this morning with no sign of abatement. The fall of Omaha has been over eight inches, resulting in demoralized street traffic.

The fall over Nebraska has averaged over five inches.

"Worth a million dollars," was the unanimous opinion of ranchers and stockmen visiting the livestock markets at South Omaha yesterday. "Just what the winter wheat needs," they said.

MILITARY ACADEMY PROPOSED IN GLENDALE

A strictly modern military academy for Glendale is the latest possibility. That an experienced and capable military academy instructor is ready to come here and to establish within this city the finest military training school on the Pacific coast, was the assertion made at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board Wednesday noon by W. L. Twining, realtor, of South Brand boulevard. The name of this military instructor is withheld. The proposition is to secure a site somewhere near the foothills, consisting of from eight to 10 acres. Upon this site it is proposed to erect an academy to cost in the neighborhood of $150,000. In all sorts of buildings necessary for the conducting of an institution of this character are on the program, these to include several dormitories, where the boarding students will be housed. The school that is proposed, if erected, will be something on the order of the Culver, Ind., academy, which is one of the finest in the country. It is said that a bonding house in Los Angeles is prepared to underwrite the establishment of an institution of this character.

ADAM AND EVA OPENS AT THE T. D. & L. THEATER

Manipulating motion picture cameras on the edge of the famous volcano Kilauea furnished plenty of excitement to the cast of "The White Flower," the new Betty Compson Paramount picture, which was screened in the Hawaiian Islands, which is on view at the T. D. & L. Theatre, closing today.

The company remained in Hawaii for several weeks, encompassing in that time beautiful backgrounds of Honolulu, exciting swimming scenes on the beach at Waikiki, scenes with a background of pineapple and sugar cane plantations and other views colorfully representative of the famous American possession.

Compson plays a half-caste Hawaiian girl, and is supported by Edmund Lowe, Edward Martindel, Arline Pretty, Sylvia Ashton, Leon Barry and Lily Phillips.

In her new Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture, "Adam and Eva," which will be on view at the T. D. & L. Theatre tomorrow, Marion Davies wears some beautiful clothes which she bought in Paris. One evening gown is made of champagne colored champagne trimmed with moonstones.

PORK PIE HATS

[By Associated Press] LONDON, March 15.—The "pork pie" hats and poke bonnets of the mid-Victorian period will again be worn in London, the trade authorities said today.

Women are to wear hats this season such as they wore in the mid-Victorian days. Every hat is different. Many have flowers and others have elaborate old-fashioned ribbon work.

Young folks sometimes suffer from the narrowness of old age. Jennie Pie, it seems to me, has set an excellent example. She does not criticize or frown upon the ways of youth, nor has she any of the motives of a younger woman. Instead, she borrows from her juniors with no thought or romance in mind. She has probably abandoned all hope of ever marrying.

WE WOMEN

By BETTY BRAINERD
THE WAY OF A MAID

It is refreshing to learn that a 105-year-old Indian flapper has bobbed her hair. Flappers have been condemned by elderly people who made a practice of frowning upon the ways and tendencies of youth. Perhaps these critics will look up to the Indian squaw and respect the opinion of old age.

The lady is Jennie Pie. She is a full-blooded Chowchilla Indian. Her mother and George the Third of England were children at the same time. This was even before Paul Revere had learned to ride a horse. Our national anthem then was "God Save the King."

Jennie recalls her mother's description of George Washington in silk knickerbockers and stockings. She also remembers the effect which the grandeur and powdered wigs of Virginia society leaders in the old Colonial days had on her mother.

I mention this, of course, by way of emphasizing the fact that Jennie is old. But it appears that Jennie has young ideas.

She has bobbed her hair.

Jennie has watched the evolution of style through ten decades of American life. She may not be regarded as an authority outside her own little set, but it must be admitted she has the viewpoint of maturity. This is the ground on which flappers are criticized by their elders.

Bobbed hair is not tolerated in some families. There seems to be some prejudice against it here and there. But even in the most conservative of homes it will be conceded bobbed hair is to be preferred to a wig or toupee.

Bobbed hair has ceased to be a national issue. It has had a good vogue and is passing out as a style. Families no longer sit in judgment about the dinner table and debate the advisability of allowing sister to bob her hair. Some chorus girls are now required to wear wigs over their abbreviated thatches.

It is said that a head which wears a crown is uneasy, but it would appear that a head which wears a wig or toupee is just as uneasy. In a case of this kind the truth of the old saying would not apply. An ill wind might tear a wig or toupee loose, but it could scarcely be said that the wind did some good. The owner of the wig or toupee would have evidence to the contrary.

Young folks sometimes suffer from the narrowness of old age. Jennie Pie, it seems to me, has set an excellent example. She does not criticize or frown upon the ways of youth, nor has she any of the motives of a younger woman. Instead, she borrows from her juniors with no thought or romance in mind. She has probably abandoned all hope of ever marrying.

"Yo' jes' bet Ah has, boss," was Sam's mournful rejoinder. "An' what's more, it done appear that I've gone and married myself to the whole world war."

"I have come to consult you," she said to her lawyer.

"What is the trouble?"

"I have three proposals of marriage, and I don't know which to accept."

"Which man has the most money?"

"Do you imagine?" she asked, "that if I knew that I would consult you or any other lawyer?"

SANITARY LEAGUE SHOWS BENEFIT OF DRIVE

Concrete evidence of the substantial manner in which the plumbing industry of Southern California is succeeding in its campaign to safeguard public health through the adoption of modern methods of sanitation is contained in a report just compiled by the research committee of the Sanitary Development league, 825 Higgins building.

This report shows that a greater advance has been made in the installation of improved sanitary equipment than in any other section of California. It is also announced that the campaign has resulted in a demand on the part of home-builders and the general public for the best in plumbing materials and workmanship.

"This movement to protect the public from the evils of improper sanitation is having a far-reaching effect," said Charles H. Treat, president of the Board of Public Works, in an address before the Sanitary Development league.

"It has started the public thinking, it has awakened those who are directing the building of our homes, office-buildings, industrial plants and great manufacturing establishments to the dangers that lie in the use of materials that merely comply with building specifications and that will not endure through time.

"Plumbing has more to do with public health than almost anything else. Careful thought should be given to the problem of sanitation in the building of any structure. It means the future safety of every community.

"Only too often we find that because the plumbing is installed behind walls where it cannot be seen that inferior materials have been deemed sufficient to meet temporary needs. Plumbing must be regarded as a permanent thing and therefore it is a part of economy to select the best and most lasting system of sanitation. This is such a great truth, such a logical conclusion, that the public has been quick to respond to the campaign of the Sanitary Development league to induce the adoption of modern methods of sanitation and the use of the best in materials."

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS,
President American Society for Thrift.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN once said that economy begins with saving money. What he had in mind was the great truth that the first steps consist of laying aside money, but that these primary practices do not constitute thrift in its entirety.

S. W. STRAUS

thrift education.

It is unfortunate that in much of the so-called thrift work in this country encouragement has been given only to the saving of money. One cannot, of course, say aught of such advice, excepting that it does not go far enough.

Let the nation learn the words of Lincoln that "economy begins with saving money," but let us emphasize the thought that Lincoln made use of the word begin. Saving money is only the beginning of thrift.

Judging by the reports in the newspapers from day to day one seems safe in assuming that there is a rising tide of unscrupulous practices based on insufficient popular understanding of personal economics.

A great public duty confronts us all in putting forth every effort to end these corrupt machinations. As much attention should be given to teaching the correct uses of money as is given to the encouragement of saving money. Simply to preach "Save!" "Save!" is not enough.

Wise spending and prudent investing constitute two-thirds of the problem of personal economics. Successful saving is the other third.

STATE BUDGET IS DISCUSSED BEFORE P. T. A. FEDERATION

Supt. R. D. White and Mrs. Nina Carson Make Addresses

The two speakers at the meeting of the federation of Parent-Teachers' associations of Glendale held at the high school Wednesday afternoon were Superintendent Richardson D. White, who spoke on the governor's budget for the schools of the state, and Mrs. Nina Carson, a representative of the State Board of Health, which is likely to suffer by drastic cuts in its budget made by Governor Richardson. Her talk was upon the educational work which the employees of the department have been trying to do in going about the state to reduce infant mortality in the belief that intelligent motherhood could put a stop to an annual infant mortality of 200,000 babies under one year of age, most of it during the first 30 days of life.

Several matters of business were transacted before these speeches, and a piece of mysterious information was given out by Mrs. H. V. Henry which whetted the curiosity of follow members when consideration was given to a communication from the Tenth district asking for the endorsement of its candidate, Mrs. Charles F. Gray for president of the state federation of P. T. A. Mrs. H. V. Henry asked that the communication be acknowledged with the statement that the first district in which Glendale is situated is about to launch a candidate of its own who is known and loved in Glendale.

A beautiful silver cup to be offered by the association as a track trophy was on exhibition, having been purchased by a special committee headed by Mrs. William C. Wattle.

Presidents present were urged to appoint members of the federation nominating committee who would be prepared to act at the next regular meeting. They were also urged to send material for the annual report of the historian, and to attend the district council at Pomona a week from Thursday.

Mrs. Prialux, treasurer, reported a cash balance of $67.33, not counting the returns from the bazaar.

The association voted its endorsement of the resolutions submitted by Mr. White as adopted by the City Teachers' club of Glendale. In his talk Mr. White dwelt on the shortage in the supply of free text books which has been acute for some time. In the face of a request on the part of the Superintendent of Public Instruction for an appropriation of $300,000 to meet this need, occasioned by the great increase in school enrollment, there has been an actual cut of 33 percent to $500,000.

He said that the text books on

'WORLDLY MADONNA' AT THE GLENDALE THEATRE

You've often heard that motion picture stars take their lives in their hands and often risk death in the making of scenes for pictures. A case in hand is that of the very narrow escape of Clara Kimball Young and a special taxi driver in the making of a scene near the Santa Fe railroad tracks in Los Angeles recently.

The continuity called for a mad drive from the railroad station to St. Anne's hospital and the driver lost no time in making the ride a reality. The delay that occurs in the scene is supposed to take place by the passing of a freight train and the lowering of the gates at the crossing, preventing the taxi in making the crossing, thus giving the suspense necessary.

The scene described, but without the accident, is shown in "The Worldly Madonna" which stars Clara Kimball Young and is shown at the Glendale theatre tonight.

From Ballynea to Ballyfar the railroad is a single track. The stationmaster, at Ballynea, once started the train without consulting any one. While he was watching it disappear in the distance the signalman stuck his head out of his box and said, "Did ye start her?" "I did," replied the other. "An' me just callin' the wain from Ballyfar!" cried the signalman. The other rubbed his hands, saying, "Be gor, sh'll meet her match!"

WHOLE TOWN MOVES

Osborn, Ohio, population 1000, is being moved to higher ground out of the retarding basin formed by the big dam that has been constructed to protect Dayton from floods.

civics, geography and many other subjects in which great changes have taken place due to the passage of the 18th and 19th constitutional amendments and the World war, are still in use and contain much in regard to the grandeur of the German empire, having of course, no hint of equal suffrage, nor of the prohibition amendment, nor many other developments.

Mrs. Carter told of the work her department is trying to do for the instruction of mothers, particularly in isolated districts on the pre-natal and post-natal care of infants, also the "little mother classes" for girls in high schools on child hygiene.

The movement to raise the standard of midwives and to establish a school for them, was touched upon, and a tribute was paid to the Japanese midwives who, she said, have a training equal to that of medical students and whose cases show an astonishingly low mortality.

She dwelt on the importance of vegetables in the diet of children and told a sample story of ways in which children can be interested in vegetables and persuaded to eat them. She also told the mothers that the department would be glad to send them balanced diets for children if they would but apply for them.

At the close of the program refreshments of tea and wafers were served during a social half hour.

CHURCH NIGHT AT CENTRAL CHRISTIAN

Church night at Central Christian last evening was a notable occasion. More than 100 people partook of the bountiful meal that was served and among the number were several strangers, guests of relatives who brought them along that they might see how the church night service was conducted. There was one couple present from Hamilton, Canada, and several states of the Union were represented by guests. During the devotional services following the supper, J. W. Phillips of West Wilson gave two fine solos, with his wife as accompanist, and a quartet consisting of Harry Marple, Oscar Whitaker, Mr. Brooks and Forest Cole, accompanied by Miss Lura Crouch at the piano, sang two hymns. This quartet sang again later in the evening and all of their numbers were greatly enjoyed. At the close of the prayer service W. H. Hanna, a missionary to the Philippines, who returned on furlough a few months ago, gave a lecture on his work there, showing and explaining a number of fine stereoscopic views of the country and peoples of the country surrounding Manila and also that in the high mountains. This was a wonderfully interesting feature.

RUSSIA PLANS THE REOPENING OF INDUSTRIES

[By Associated Press]

MOSCOW, March 15.—Leon Trotsky, the Russian war minister, may assume a new job, that of directing the rehabilitation of Russia's big industries, if plans which are to be presented to the twelfth congress of the Communist party, meeting in Moscow late in March, are carried out. Trotsky, it is understood, would continue to act as director of the fighting forces of Russia, but will devote most of his time to the heavy task of whipping Russian factories into shape. He already has worked out plans to this end, and will present them to the congress.

Trotsky's ability as an organizer would long ago have been called into play in this particular job had it not been for opposition by some members of the party, who considered that the war minister would enforce military control over the workingmen. It is said that in the beginning Trotsky will close down many factories which are poorly equipped or poorly managed, utilizing their machinery to strengthen the mechanical equipment of the better factories which are to be operated with larger forces to bring about a normal output.

In addition to discussing plans for industrial betterment, the party congress is expected to devise means to bring about a better feeling between the "Nepmen," as the business men developed by the new economic policy are called, and the actual proletariat. The "Nepmen" have no votes, but their growing prosperity has greatly alarmed some of the more rabid communists, who see in their extension the danger of a restoration of old-time conditions in Russia. Premier Lenin sounded the keynote of the conference in a recent statement in which he stated that the basis for the social reconstruction of Russia rests upon the collaboration of the two classes. He has proposed that about 100 of the most honest and best understanding communists be formed into a special department, authorized to inspect the working of all government institutions and industries, with the aim of ironing out any difficulties that develop in the relationships of the two classes. They are to act in collaboration with the central committee of the Communist party, forming a body of perhaps 400 men whose decisions would be virtually final.

"The basis of Russia's social reconstruction rests upon the collaboration of the workmen and peasants on the one hand and the bourgeoisie on the other," Lenin said. "The bourgeoisie are now being allowed a little leeway. Should serious class difference arise between these two classes then a clash is unavoidable. But the necessary conditions for such a split do not exist in our structure, and the chief aim of the central committee should be to watch very carefully all conditions out of which a split might develop, and to warn all that in the end the fate of our republic will depend chiefly upon whether the peasant masses will follow the working classes, or unite with the 'Nepmen.' The clearer we have this possibility before our eyes, the better the workmen and peasants will understand it, and the better will we be able to avoid a split that would be ruinous to the Soviet Government."

The party congress will devote also considerable time to projects for the prevention of bribery, and to curtail the red tape which now entangles most government bureaus. Lenin in his article says that with the exception of the foreign office, virtually all of the government departments are today as they were in the old days, using the same old typical bureaucratic methods.

Tired Tim knocked at the door of a cottage. It was a chilly day and he was very hungry.

The old lady who opened the door was of a good sort. She asked him into the kitchen and placed before him a nicely cooked meal and asked him why he did not go to work.

"I would," replied Tim, "if I had tools."

"What sort of tools do you want?" inquired the old lady.

"Knife and fork," said Tired Tim.

This photograph of Archbishop Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, newly appointed apostolic delegate to succeed Cardinal John H. Langens as the Vatican's representative in America, was made on his arrival in New York, in which city he remained several days before proceeding to Washington. Mgr. BALKS DIALECT ENGLISH PLAN

[By Associated Press]

MANILA, P. I., March 15.—Vice-Governor E. A. Gilmore, who ex-officio is secretary of public instruction of the Philippines, is opposed to the plan proposed in a bill introduced in the legislature, to teach English in the public schools by the use of a Philippine dialect, or through an indirect method. In a statement presented to the senate committee of public instruction which is holding hearings on the bill, Vice-Governor Gilmore says to change the direct method of teaching to an indirect method now would be to lose a great deal of the progress already made.

"With regard to the bilingual method, I have carefully considered all the material bearing on the subject and regard it as pedagogically unsound, especially in the Philippines," he said. "Its adoption would not improve the instruction in English, but, on the contrary, would produce a very confused and unsatisfactory condition in the schools. The indirect or translation method of teaching a foreign language is highly impracticable, especially in the Philippines, where there is such a large number of dialects, many of which do not have a vocabulary commensurate with the foreign tongue being taught. From personal experience in learning a foreign language and from observations of teaching foreign languages to others, I am convinced that the most rapid and effective method is the direct one."

"During my stay in the Philippines I have been in 43 out of the 49 provinces and have visited hundreds of schools. In these schools I have paid particular attention to the teaching of English. As a result of my observation, I say, without hesitation, that it is remarkable the extent to which English is used throughout the islands and the facility which the school children display in expressing themselves in this tongue; and all this has been accomplished in a little more than twenty years. The people are acquiring a common tongue. Even though it may not be perfect, idiomatic English, well pronounced, it is English which is generally understood and affords a common medium of communication."

Two men were arguing about present-day education. One was of the opinion that it was of little use, the other that it was of the greatest value. "Look at my boy, Jack," he said. "He can answer any question you choose to ask him. Here he comes; ask him anything you like." "Jack," said the other, "your father says you are getting on well at school. How many are 7 and 4?"

"Two," was the prompt reply.

"There you are," said the proud father, "right within one first bloomin' guess."

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a messy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. —Advertisement.

Truths in Epigram

God heals, the doctor makes the fee.—Franklin.

Dictionaries are like watches; the worst is better than none, and the best cannot be expected to go quite true.—Johnson.

A sense of duty pursues us ever. It is omnipresent, like the Deity.—Webster.

POLITICAL PRISONERS

Senator Borah says that had the espionage act been in force in the time of Lincoln, that instead of being elevated to the presidency, the great man would have been sent to the penitentiary. Borah has the constitutional right to utter his convictions. It is not possible to suppose that the utterance in question in any way represents his conviction. Even the not uncommon tendency to rebuke Borah would pause at the opportunity to accuse him of an ignorance so dense.

Lincoln opposed the war with Mexico, but when his country had become committed to that war did everything possible to promote its success. He had no inclination to be a traitor. He ever was the ideal patriot. Many of the political prisoners whom Borah wants released immediately were traitors. The assertion that they merely expressed their opinions, and because of these opinions, were cast into prison, is, as to many of them, and perhaps to all, baseless. When this country was at war they were doing all they could to give aid and comfort to the enemy, which is an act of treason. They sought to induce men of conscriptive age to avoid the draft. They spread German propaganda.

For example, a Los Angeles oculist treated the eyes of men subject to draft, so as to make them appear to have permanently defective vision. A woman was his assistant. She sought the patients and he treated them. To say that this pair went to prison because of having expressed their opinions as to the duty of citizens would be absurd.

In the strict construction of the term there are no "political" prisoners. There are various dangerous persons kept under restraint because they tried to defeat the purposes of this government, to poison the minds of its loyal citizen, and made a display of their hatred of the constitution and of the country in which, however unworthy, they had found shelter.

THE SPIRIT OF VANDALISM

Along the Foothill Boulevard may be seen a beautiful hedge of roses. They are not of the commoner varieties, but gorgeous in their color and profusion. They shed their fragrance, and project their radiance into the highway. They are not protected from the clutch of the greedy and destructive. Only a hint is given that the generous owner knows such people exist. There is a courteous legend on a placard thus:

"These Flowers are for Your Pleasure. Do not Mutilate or Pick."

Surely that ought to be considered appeal enough. Yet close to the sign last Sunday might have been seen a group of persons engaged in picking the roses. So eager were they to get the prizes that they broke stems and bushes ruthlessly. They knew they were doing wrong, as was evidenced by their haste, and the furtive manner in which they glanced at passersby, as though fearing rebuke.

The passersby looked their contempt, but none interfered. Sometimes the American is prone to carry to an extreme his policy of attending to his own business. The ignorant and boorish vandal, deserving, of course, of direct censure, is at the same time to be pitied. There is much joy in life that he never is to know. He has been denied the finer faculties of appreciation. The person who would not prefer to see those roses adorning the way, for all to behold and to be thereby made glad, to stealing them to wither in his larcenous hands, is a poor-souled creature.

And why destroy the comely yucca, an ornament to the hills? All its charm vanishes when it is cut down. Yet so persistent have been the efforts to destroy it, that the process has had to be forbidden by law. The artistic sense appreciates beauty, but it is the spirit of vandalism that tears it from its place, and causes it to perish.

SO MUCH TO LEARN!

Research in Mexico is bringing to light some of the secrets of civilization gone and forgotten thousands of years. When the Castilian adventurers found a simple, friendly folk in Mexico, whom they robbed and slaughtered, they came upon no legend telling of peoples that had vanished centuries before. There was no record, not even tradition. The past was a blank. The desert sands made no more revelations than come from the silent Sphinx. But American investigators have found many wonderful facts. They have found superimposed upon civilizations, long vanished, the relics of later civilizations. The periods intervening between these civilizations cannot be determined with exactitude, but there is evidence of a lapse of hundreds and possibly thousands of years. The craftsmanship as portrayed by the tools and artistry, show a very decided advance with each era. There is evidence that some of the ancient regimes were distinctly Mongolian, the features preserved in various images having the distinctive Mongol cast. Just how the succeeding people were related to the earlier, or what connection the latest of them may have with the present, may not be established yet, if ever.

In what way the olden nations, or tribes or settlements were effaced remains a mystery. All that is known is that the cataclysm came suddenly, overwhelming and final.

To the student of archaeology the Mexican discoveries present even a greater interest than inheres in the exploitation of the times of the pharaohs. Something at least was known of those times; that art and skill had achieved much, and that great wealth had been gathered. The opening of the Tutankhamen tomb but served to confirm beliefs already entertained. The Mexican message is from a world not only long dead, but of the existence of which there had been no knowledge.

THE YOUTHFUL GRANDMOTHER

A sort of competition as to the most youthful grandmother is in progress. The results thus far have been interesting. The youngest grandmother yet found assumed that station at the age of twenty-eight. At forty-two she was a great-grandmother. To achieve this remarkable record she was married at twelve years, and at thirteen had become a mother. Her daughter, somewhat laggard by the maternal standard, was not married until she had reached the maturity of fourteen, and motherhood did not crown her until she was fifteen. Still, judged by most acceptable precedents, the daughter could not be regarded as slow.

Notwithstanding the possibilities made evident by these marriage and birth statistics, there is grave reason to doubt that they set forth an admirable example. In this country the child of twelve years, or of the earlier teens, is not fit in any sense, for the responsibilities of married life. She has neither the physical stamina nor the mental poise. She still belongs under the tuition of home and school. While there are students of sociology who advocate early marriage, they do not have in mind the union of babes. To be a grandmother at twenty-eight is not to represent a wise plan, not to present a model to be safely followed. Such an exhibition of precocity appears more likely to be classed as a freak.

FRIGHTENING CHILDREN

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

It's an old trick, frightening children to make them "good." And it is as disreputable as it's old. In this matter it is hard to decide who is the more guilty, parents or nurses.

It does not matter; the point is that it is time that parents, for it is they who control the upbringing of offspring, knew how children react to fear.

Take the following sentences culled from a letter that came to me recently and mull them over in your mind:

"I was so glad to read the description of the tyrant father. Mine was that kind. He used to glare and scold until I felt faint; and sometimes he would not speak to me for days, if I forgot to take my medicine."

"Sometimes he told me bedtime stories, usually about the tragic end of some animal and my heart would ache to bursting and I fell asleep worn out and depressed from crying."

"He had no wish to be unkind but he was wholly ignorant of the great need of a little child for happiness. He was actually complimented when his own make of stories registered so well. 'I was an only child and often unable to attend school through ill health and I had little companionship to offset the gloom created by my father's iron will. I hope your articles open the eyes and bring enlightenment to the minds of other parents.'"

The letter is signed "Sincerity," and I thank the writer for strengthening my fight against fear as a means of discipline for child or beast.

Children are naturally loving and sympathetic to all forms of life and it is wicked to tell them frightful stories and expect them to enjoy horrors.

I know one woman whose nervous system was so damaged by her father's cruel stories that she has never regained her normal poise. He used to tell her and her little sister on his knees and tell them how the devil had a long pointed tail on which he strung bad little girls as chicken livers are strung on skewers, and when they were all fast he said the devil ran through the briars and scratched out the eyes of the tiny sinners. Another favorite story was that the devil punished disobedient children by hanging them over the flames by their tongues. Years afterwards he was amazed to learn that he had ruined the health and happiness of one of his daughters and had in addition alienated her from the religion that he sought to instill into her through fear.

That kind of thing is criminal. And I want parents to wake up and abandon such methods.

THE RIGHT WORD

QUERIES

(Find the error in this article.)

Wanted: a Comma

John Collins of Cashmere, Wash., has read the following in a Seattle newspaper: "My love for my mother and her grief turned a careless boy into a serious money-maker." Says Mr. Collins: "Does not the omission of a comma after the word 'mother' change the meaning the writer apparently wished to convey—that the love he felt for his mother, as well as his grief, fired him with ambition?" It would seem that a comma should have been placed not only after mother, but also after grief.

How Many Is (Are) None?

A. Alexander of New York asks which is the right word in the following, has or have: "None of our stores has (have) bought these garments." According to good usage either word is correct, the choice being made dependent on whether you want to emphasize one, or the other of the ideas not even one, or not more than one. Has should seem to be the better choice in the foregoing sentence.

The Shall-Or-Will Problem

Howard E. Hyde of Schenectady, N. Y., writes: "Can you give any short and to-the-point rule regarding the correct use of will and would, shall and should?" Then he continues: "Why is the following incorrect: 'Of course we received his letter or we wouldn't be answering it?' The use of shall or will, should or would, is a real problem with many people. Shouldn't it be the right word in the foregoing sentence. Try to remember that when you use will or would with I or me, you are usually expressing determination on the part of I or we. Condition is involved in the foregoing sentence, which precludes the idea of determination and consequently shuts out the use of wouldn't. 'The Right Word' will discuss this problem again tomorrow, going particularly into the nature of Ill, well, I'd, and we'd."

The Error

Wrong: Has should seem to be the better choice.
Right: Has would seem to be the better choice.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

We are heirs of the ages. The knowledge and tradition and treasures of knowledge and learning have all come down to us.

For we are the children of the ages. And as children we inherit.

We have inherited a written language. And the thinking of the world as far as it has been preserved, in that language. We have inherited the earth.

For it was all discovered before we came here.

We have inherited liberty.

For liberty was fought for and established before we were born.

We have inherited scientific achievement. All of the scientific achievement that has been attained up to now.

A goodly estate we have inherited. Rapid transportation from and to all parts of this land of ours.

And across the ocean. Speech by telegraph and telephone and wireless.

We have inherited beauty. In the art of the Egyptians and the Greeks and the Romans and the Chinese.

We have inherited architecture. By which we have homes and public buildings.

We have inherited art. By which we have the magnificent conception of artists done for us with brush and paint and canvas.

Music, poetry, sculpture, all these have come down to us.

For we invented none of them.

We have merely followed along pretty well beaten pathways.

And we have inherited knowledge of medicine and healing.

A pretty goodly heritage is ours.

Knowledge of mathematics by which we roam the stars and build bridges and tunnel mountains.

Knowledge of electricity by which we talk to our friends at the uttermost parts of the town and country.

And there is government of, for and by the people.

We have inherited that.

For we did not create it.

It was done for us.

We have inherited Magna Carta and the Declaration of Independence.

We have inherited a constitution by which certain fundamental rights are assured to us.

And we have inherited a system of public schools.

An educational institution.

Open to every man, woman and child.

To build the better for our happiness and health and growth.

Yes, it is all a goodly heritage.

For which we owe a lasting debt of gratitude to good men and women of all time.

Thousands of years ago the abiding principles of truth were sought for and found.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A Long Beach man has built a great apartment house for the benefit of parents and children. The children are not only tolerated but welcomed. The purpose in erecting the building was to give them the chance that it is so common for landlords and landladies to withhold, adding a disapproving frown as emphasis.

The couple having children are likely to have to beg for a place in which to shelter them. Often they have to seek remote lodgings because of having taken upon themselves the responsibilities of parents.

There is no stranger inconsistency than shown in the tendency to rebuff the family that consists of more than husband and wife. Any member not an adult, in a larger family, is sternly barred out, of course turning the whole family adrift.

To build and equip homes for families with children would be as simple and easy as to build any other kind. It would constitute a safe investment, for the demand would be constant.

Many a parent has had the humiliation of being refused as a tenant after having to confess to the indiscretion of having children. There is a record of families having been expelled because of the birth of a child. Thus there have been efforts to brand all children as nuisances, and all parents as unworthy the shelter of a roof sheltering the barren.

At the same time the sociologist deprecates the childless family, and the condition of childlessness is mentioned as a leading reason for divorce, the young couple who would be glad to have babies in the house are bidden not to dare to do such a thing until they have a house of their own.

The landlord who has provided for children deserves to have his building regarded as a monument to his gracious thoughtfulness.

Senator-elect Mayfield of Texas may find the holding of his seat untenable, owing to the presence of tacks placed by unappreciative statesmen. The charge is made that he was elected by the ku klux. If such is the case the way does not seem clear for him to take, with conscience clear, the oath to uphold the constitution.

It is said that a vote as to receiving the man as a senator would not be on partisan lines. This is a rash prediction. No vote as to seating one whose right had been contested ever has been settled on other than partisan lines.

Another flyer has been killed as he contributed his stunt to the making of a film picture. The happening is not particularly infrequent. Possibly a picture thus distinguished has the "punch" which is the perpetual quest of the producer.

Hundreds of foreigners have been swindled by certain bankers in New York. The loss is said to run into millions. The bankers have fled and at this writing no trace has been found of them. They as well as their victims are Italians.

Italians do not take kindly to being fleeced. In this instance they make the declaration that they will kill the offending bankers. Very likely they will do so. At any rate the absconding financiers are going to have a hard time to find a place where they may rest at ease as they spend their winnings.

There is nothing surprising in the raid upon a rum ship by bootleg pirates. This craft was off New York watching for a chance to smuggle its cargo in. It kept beyond the three-mile limit and so was safe from the law. The bootlegger, however, knows no law.

Doubtless the stolen liquor is being consumed in the city by this time, the citizens who purchased it fondly imagining that they are more respectable than the pirates they patronize.

Doc Cook, the only man to win polar fame by staying away from the pole, has been divorced by a long-suffering wife. She had stood for his lying a score of years. The court thought that was long enough. The general opinion is that it was too long.

Messrs. Balfour and McAdoo can't seem to agree on a question of fact. They do not get a view of the fact from the same angle, and it may represent to them respectively, a different front. Every man is entitled to his opinion anyhow. If each thinks that he perceives the exact truth, each ought to be satisfied, and permit the other to be equally content. As a matter of fact nobody else gives a darn about the matter anyhow.

Kidnaping of children is one of the heinous crimes. Often it is the basis for blackmail, and in many instances it has resulted in murder. It is treated therefore with great severity, and the proposition to punish by death has been seriously considered.

Recently the baby of a prominent couple of Albany was stolen. This seems to have been different from the usual case. The offender was a nurse girl. Betrayed at 13 she had become a mother at 15, and lost the child. It hardly would do to judge this pathetic wreck of childhood as normal.

"There is no conflict whatever between science and religion when each is correctly understood." Dr. Robert A. Millikan.

Vigorously defending the scientist's search for truth, Dr. Ralph T. Flewelling of the University of Southern California declares that "the scriptures champion the necessity for scientific research."

These men find no difficulty in being both scientists and Christians.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

There doesn't seem to be anything really simple in this world. There is a catch in almost anything. Just as you think you have worked out a new scheme something gums it.

The ultimate meaning of which is that Charles Augustus Callahan has ceased living on rabbit food.

Charles Augustus was not merely fat, but bulbous. He overhung like a Chesapeake Bay canoe. Then some one loaned him a book in which it was explained that if you lived on string beans and spinach you would regain your youthful contours, if you did not eat too many beans.

He lost his fat, all right. He was undoubtedly better for it. But man cannot live by string beans alone. His temper became irritable and he developed one of the finest cases of ingrowing dyspepsia ever heard of in those parts where most of us lived, until the hideous temptation was removed from us by law, on toasted cheese and deleterious liquids.

"But that wasn't the worst of it," Charles Augustus admits.

IN 1843, Philadelphia passed a law prohibiting bathing between November 1st and March 15th. In 1845 Boston made bathing unlawful unless prescribed by a physician. The State of Virginia went them one better in 1845 by imposing a tax of $30 per year on every bath tub. In 1851 President Fillmore installed the first bath tub in the White House. That is History.

Not more than thirty years ago New Orleans was a plague ridden City. The deaths from Yellow fever were appalling. The world stood aghast. THE CAUSE WAS LACK OF MODERN PLUMBING. The officials of the National Association of Master Plumbers were appealed to. The result was the installation of a modern sewer system and the complete elimination of Yellow fever. THAT IS PROGRESS.

The knowledge of such achievements inspires to greater effort the members of the Sanitary Development League. The League is composed of 200 Southern California Plumbers, all high-minded, successful business men!

M'AULIFFE TELLS OF THE RING
'LIZZIES'By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 15 (United Press).—Only once in a while will old Jack McAuliffe rear up and assail the present generation of fighters. He is one of the few old timers, whose opinion is worth anything, who does not regard the fighters of his day as far superior to the champions of the present day.

"Some of these fellows today are turning into 'Lizzies.' They wouldn't have been game enough to get in the ring enough to swing a towel in the old bare fist days," Jack said in blowing off about the much discussed Tunney-Greb fight. "When that big fellow Tunney turned to the referee and asked him to make little Greb quit treating him rough, he reminded me of a boy with curls running home to mama," Jack said.

"That is a grand thing when they kick up a big fuss about little things and write to the papers asking for a square deal. If a fellow is a real fighter, not one will gouge him, heel him, shoulder or elbow him and get away with it more than once.

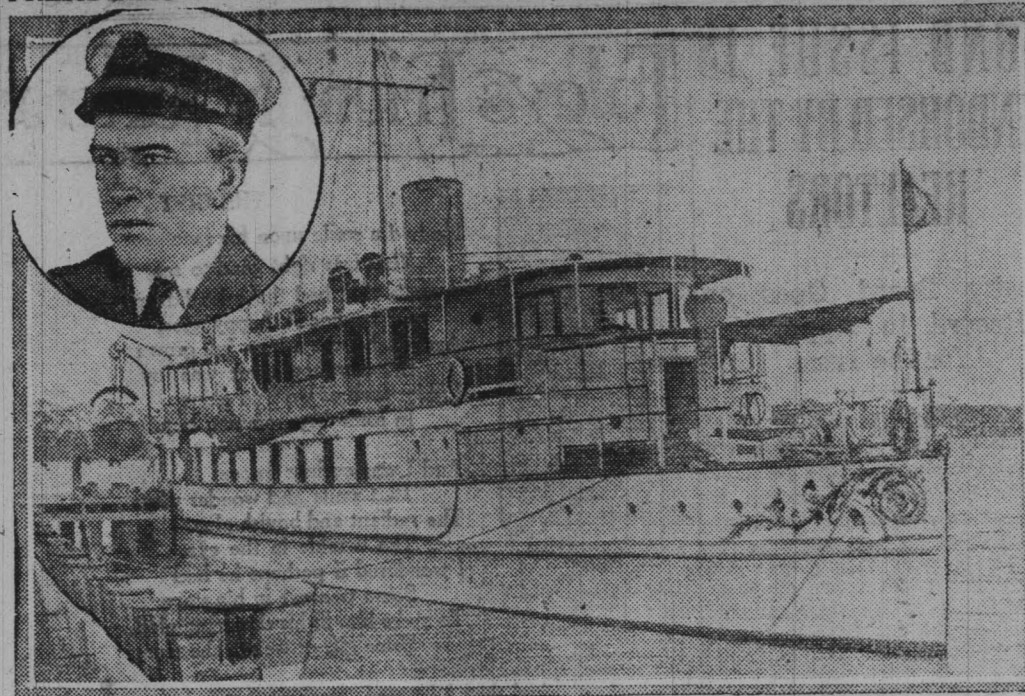

"That fellow Greb is just as bad. Imagine a fighter appealing to a boxing commission for protection when he is going into a badly lit hall in the presence of 10,000 people. I'd like to see that fellow go in a ring when he knew the other corner was filled with guns.

"We've got some great fighters in this day and we also have some fine mollies."

Jole Ray, America's great little distance runner, is one athlete who can start blowing his horn in the morning and blow it all day and get away with it.

Jole gets away with it because he does everything he says he can do.

It is a matter of history that Jole

PRESIDENTIAL YACHT FOR FLORIDA VACATION CRUISE, AND CAPTAIN

This photograph of the yacht Pioneer, on which President and Mrs. Harding cruised in Florida waters, was made while the pleasure craft was tied up recently at Ormond Beach, Fla. The insert shows the commander, Captain John Kluge of Brooklyn, N. Y. The yacht is owned by Emil Kluge of New York city. The Hardings left Washington on March 5.

arose in a cafe in Antwerp and led three cheers for himself and got a big response.

Several weeks ago he broke the world's record for two miles and when he was being overwhelmed with congratulations he pushed the well wishers aside and said: "I can do better. That last mile was bad."

Later when Willie Ritola beat him in a three mile event and made a new world's record Jole remarked to Willie: "I didn't run my race or I'd have made better time than that."

Jole is quite an amateur boxer and he prides himself on his ability with his fists. During a recent tournament in Chicago, a rival of Jole's knocked out a very good opponent in two rounds and Jole was asked about it.

"I'd have knocked him out in a round," Jole said. Ray entered a meet at Ohio State University recently and a big crowd gathered expecting that he might make a record.

"I don't feel very good. I've had a lot of big races and got some more coming, so I guess I'll give you about a 4:30 mile," he told the committee. He went out and ran the mile in 4:30 1-10.

New York likes anyone who boasts or pops off and Ray is a great favorite here. So much so that he wants to leave Chicago and reside here.

"They don't appreciate what a wonderful runner I am in Chicago and they do in New York, so I guess I'll move here where they know something good when they see it," Ray said.

That's how Ray gets away with it.

Bob McAllister, detective on the New York police force and the latest sprinting sensation in New York, is built of the same Ray material, but he doesn't get away with it so well. One of the New York writers criticized Bob recently and after reading the piece several times, Bob remarked:

"Well, I'm finished with that guy. I'll never get him any more inside news about me."

HUMANITY

A large audience listened to Dr. R. A. Hadden at the Glendale Presbyterian church Wednesday night while he spoke on "The Problem of Man."—Is he a creation or an evolution? He said, in part, that a multitude of vagaries, delusions and cults have sprung into existence to aid man in the search after truth, the major portion uniting in opposition to the bible as a divine revelation, and to Jesus Christ as the manifestation of God in the flesh. Related to these opponents of the word is what may be termed atheistical evolution which is leading a fight against the word of God under the guise of a desire to know the truth and set folk free from an age-long bondage to the traditions and myths as recorded in the Bible.

This atheistical evolution is a theory and nothing but a theory, he said. It is an invention and nothing but an invention, claiming to be scholarly, atheistical evolution has never proven one single claim. After centuries of vaporizing it is still at sea.

If modern evolution is true the bible is false. If the bible is true modern evolution is false. True evolution, he said, is a science and a fact and not to be confounded with atheistical evolution. That kind of evolution is scriptural and safe.

Man was created, not evolved. Of no other creature can it be said, "and man became a living soul."

Dr. Hadden will speak again this evening and his subject will be "The Problem of Evil."

Two men were out for a walk one day, and they commenced discussion as to what was the best employment to which to put their sons.

They discussed various businesses and trades.

"I had been thinking of putting my boy into the motor works," confessed Robinson.

Hughes had been getting the worst of the argument, so he fell back on humor to save himself. "I think I shall let my son become a gardener," he said quietly. "A gardener!" retorted Robinson, falling into the trap. "Why ever a gardener?"

"Because a gardener runs his own mint, sets his own rhyme, and raises his celery every year."

And they walked on for miles and miles in silence.

FOR SALE SIGNS

BERKELEY, CALIF., March 15.—The Realty Board of this city has voted unanimously to take down all "for sale" signs. The signs are a detriment to the real estate profession and give the impression the city is for sale, according to the real estate men. All signs will be piled in a city square and will be used to supply fuel for a huge fire at a public ceremony.

The economy of Associated Gasoline is more noticeable every time you use it. That's because it not only gives "more miles to the gallon," but it saves your motor from the ordinary troubles that you expect as a matter of course.

Associated Gasoline prevents dilution of lubricating oil, because it is all consumed in the combustion chambers.

Associated Gasoline also gives a snappy start in cold motors, saving you the bother of priming and lessening the burden on your battery.

Look for the Associated sign—it is displayed by the following garages and service stations.

BOND ISSUE IS ENDORSED BY THE REALTORS

Realty Board Goes on Record in Approval for the Issue

The Glendale Realty Board at its meeting Wednesday noon endorsed the voting of the grammar school bonds to the amount of $500,000, an election for which purpose will be held on Thursday. In connection with this matter the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, the elementary schools of the city have increased in enrollment 178% in five years, being almost three times as large now as they were in December 1917, and the increase in classroom accommodations in the same period has been only 98%; and

"Whereas, the schools of the city are in such a crowded condition that it has been necessary to build portable bungalows and to use as classrooms, storerooms and other space not intended for the purpose, and unless some relief is secured in the very near future, we shall have to resort to the system of half-day sessions, which will work a great injustice upon the children of the city; and

"Whereas, the Glendale board of education has called a bond election in the sum of $500,000, to be held on March 15, 1923, for the purpose of taking care of the needs of the elementary schools; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Glendale Realty Board endorses the proposed bond issue and urges all of its members and the citizens of Glendale to support the same with their votes."

Immediately upon the adoption of this resolution the following motion was made by Charles B. Guthrie, and unanimously passed:

"That it be the sense of the Glendale Realty Board that it is opposed to anyone connected in any way with the grammar and high schools of Glendale taking an active part in politics of any nature."

The matter of continuing the $25 per month advertisement in the state real estate journal was referred to the publicity committee.

The announcement was made of an all-day conference of the realtors of Southern California to be held at Hotel Virginia, at Long Beach, on April 14. All realtors of Glendale were invited with their wives and sweethearts to this session.

The feature of the meeting was the excellent talk on "salesman-

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE GIFT
He had a smile upon his face
That was right good to see,
A smile that had the splendid grace
Of boyhood's happy glee,
And yet he was a man full grown
But somehow there was joy
In him such as we find alone
In some big, romping boy.

And I was curious to see
That smile and wonder why:
The radiant and boyish glee,
The twinkle in the eye.
I wondered if perhaps he had
Some treasure in his store
To make him in his dreaming glad,
Some gift of wealth the more.

And then I learned somehow that he
Had found a keen distress,
And with his love and sympathy
Brought some one happiness.
The gift that made the smile he had
Was one he gave away,
And in his heart was something glad,
The smile I saw that day.

So it was not that something came
To add to his own store,
It was not wealth or gift or fame
That he could count the more.
It was that he had found the way
To help and love and lift,
That made the smile I saw that day,
He was himself the gift.

ship" given by Lon Haddock of the firm of Haddock & Nibley. For 30 minutes Mr. Haddock held his hearers spellbound, and upon the completion of his address a rising vote of thanks was given him by all of the realtors present.

On motion of Charles B. Guthrie the board unanimously voted to endorse the purchase of the 33 acres for water-bearing and air-plane purposes, and also bitterly opposed the injunction proceeding that have been brought against the members of the city council in connection with the purchase of that property.

Many a man would rather lie when asked for information than to say, "I don't know."

WOULD OPEN GOLDEN GATE

[By Associated Press]
LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 15.—All street beggars in Los Angeles are professional medics and there is not a single case of need among them, according to the Los Angeles Social Service commission, which has opened its drive against begging on the streets with an appeal to the public to "meet them with jobs."

Sixteen large charitable institutions and numerous smaller relief organizations, according to the commission, make it unnecessary for those in distress to beg on the street, but the professional medics prefer the easier and more profitable method of appealing to public sympathy on the sidewalks.

Lots of men secretly envy the tramp's don't-care disposition.

SUNDAY EASTER SERVICE IS ORGANIZED

Plans Call for Successful
Program Through
Co-operation

The plans for the Sunrise Easter service, being staged by Community service of Glendale, insure a most successful program. According to R. E. Tucker, executive, Community service, practically every agency and organization in Glendale has given assurance of co-operation in every possible way.

A mammoth chorus, composed of members of various church choirs, will render the opening chorus just as the first glint of sunlight appears over the eastern hills.

Professor J. B. Poulton, director of the Ellis club, has been secured as musical director for the services. Frederick Ward, famous for his work in the Mission Play, and Madame Constance Balfour, noted contralto, have also been secured.

Plans are being made to insure attendance from nearby towns, so that this big effort on the part of Community service in Glendale may be a success.

The service will be held at Observation Point, Forest Lawn Memorial park. This point was selected due to it being the highest around Glendale, and from this point an illuminated electric cross, which it is proposed to be installed, may be seen for miles.
